London, Aug. 31.—(Canadian Press Cable)—Laurance Lyon, the well-known Canadian barrister, former member of the British House of Commons for Hastings, is credited by the British Weekly with being the author of "Pomp and Power," the recently published book which discussed personages and events so frankly as to arouse considerable public interest.

SALMON FISHING, MAN HOOKS PORPOISE

Local Sportsman Has Weird Ride in Tow of Fleeing Monster

Victoria may now boast of an exciting brand of sport, porpoise fishing. It is reported on reliable authority that Charles F. Hunt, 124 Bushby Street, was tossed for half a mile by a monster he had accidentally hooked. The frail craft, a flat-bottom boat, was on the verge of being swamped as the captive dived. When the man cut the line to relieve the pressure the gunwale was at the water's edge.

Mr. Hunt was fishing off Clover Point for salmon yesterday morning. The circumstances reported, from an independent authority, E. Hinder, of George Street, were unusually exciting. Mr. Hinder was fishing about 200 feet distant, and with the keenness of fellow sportsmen was watching Mr. Hunt as the latter stopped his boat, and tried to haul in his line.

Suddenly Hunt sat down and his boat commenced to travel of its own free will at an ever increasing pace. When some distance in the neighborhood of a quarter of a mile had been covered at a dizzy pace the boat stopped as suddenly as it started.

Told by Mr. Hunt, the circumstances were no less dramatic. Trolling he felt a stoppage on his line. He thought that the hook had bitten into some kelp and was slightly annoyed at the delay. He hauled on the line, finding it very heavy. With a quick change the line began to come in easily, in fact the hook seemed to be carried towards the boat.

Thinking then it was a large salmon Mr. Hunt hauled on more cautiously, and presently caught sight of a large black body as the animal neared the boat. Of a stocky build the monster seemed to be over six feet across its body in width, and some eighteen feet long.

The monster sighted the boat, turned with a flash of its great tail, and set off at a fast pace. The captor was then captive. The line reeled out over the gunwale of the boat until it came to an end and the boat took up its mad career over the waters of the Straits.

A Weird Ride.

Jerked to his knees by the sudden start Mr. Hunt looked and found his line knifed. After a quarter of a mile had been covered in this strange manner the monster took it into its head to dive and the gunwale of the rowboat was about to tip below the water's edge when Mr. Hunt severed the line.

MRS. SMITH, HERE, TELLS OF STRUGGLE WITH DOG; PREMIER GOING NORTH; INVITED TO JOIN TOUR

Mrs. Ralph Smith, M. P. P. for Vancouver, arrived in Victoria today to confer with members of the Government on departmental matters. Mrs. Smith returned to the Coast the other day after participating in the Cranbrook by-election. She told to-day how she had been bitten by a dog twice during her first speech at Cranbrook. The animal, which had been lying at her feet suddenly sprang at her when she rose to speak and seized her foot, coercing her ankle. Then it tore the heel of her shoe before it was seized and dragged away. The dog was afterwards shot and Mrs. Smith was obliged to undergo treatment for the bite for two weeks.

Premier Oliver will leave for the Mainland tonight for a five-day trip over the Pacific Great Eastern Railway. He will be accompanied by Hon. W. F. Sutherland, Minister of Public Works, who will go as far north as Prince Rupert. The Premier and Mr. Sutherland will investigate the situation at Squamish, southern terminus of the P. G. E., to see whether the Government is preventing the flooding of adjacent flats during the winter is needed.

Montreal Board of Trade members, who will tour the West this Fall, today invited Premier Oliver to join them at Kamloops on their way West. They will accompany them to next month, and accompany them to the Coast. The Premier was not sure to-day whether he would be able to accept this invitation or not.

J. D. McNiven, Deputy Minister of Labor, left for Ottawa last night to attend the Federal Government's unemployment conference there. Before he will attend to departmental matters before proceeding East.

The movement of men from British Columbia to the harvest fields of the Prairies is practically over now, it was made known at the Department of Labor today. The number of harvesters going from the Province has been tapering off during the last week.

MINERS WORKING IN PENNSYLVANIA

Back at Tasks After Strike Settlement

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 31.—Lamps flickered early to-day in the homes of thousands of miners in Western Pennsylvania as they joyously started to the mines to work for the first time in six months. They grouped about the mine mouths and expressed satisfaction at the settlement of their strike, which was made complete yesterday when the long remaining producer, the Pittsburg Coal Company, accepted the Cleveland agreement.

Disagreement broke over the mining villages hundreds of mine laborers were entering the pits to make ready for the remainder of the 45,000 men who are now resuming employment. Five hundred mines were being cleared out to-day. Some of these will be hoisting coal next Monday, miners believed. Union leaders to-day were hustling to the mines to unionize the unorganized men. The agreement signed with the operators yesterday provided that non-union men should be discharged.

DRUNK MOTORIST DROVE CAR WILDLY

London, Ont., Aug. 31.—The police were looking for Robert Johnston, who yesterday succeeded in escaping from half a dozen policemen who attempted to arrest him on a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated. One constable tried to board his car, but Johnston knocked him from the running board. Then he opened the throttle and made for South London, driving at fifty miles an hour through streets and over bridges. The police gave chase in a fast machine, and were able to get ahead of him, but Johnston, whose nerve appears to be equal to that of Barney Oldfield, raced right at them and they had to get out of the way. Finally, as the pursuit brought the officers and their quarry into the open country, the police began firing at the tires of Johnston's machine, while people in the vicinity rushed for cover. Not a bullet took effect, however, and Johnston, with a paring whop of victory, sped away and the police gave up the chase.

Strike Affecting 18,000 Workers in Massachusetts Settled

Lawrence, Mass., Aug. 31.—The Lawrence textile strike, to-day became a thing of the past and virtual peace reigned between the workers and employers for the first time since March 27. The greater part of the 18,000 textile workers normally employed in the mills of this city are expected to be back at their places early in September. Already the wheels in several factories are in motion.

SEEN BY MANY AT EXHIBITION

Japanese Paintings at Toronto; Display by C. P. R.

Toronto, Aug. 31.—The exhibits at the Toronto Exhibition this year include a remarkable showing of Japanese art, brought to Canada especially for exhibition here. It is partly made up of a very fine collection of water paintings representing the best of the modern school of Japanese painting—those who have to some extent forsaken the more conventional style of Japanese painting in favor of the Western method, expressing the natural beauty of their country.

This collection of paintings has created a great deal of interest in Toronto's art circles, and it is hoped that art lovers here will have an opportunity of viewing the pictures after the close of the exhibition. They combine the rich colorings the people have learned to associate with the work of the more advanced school of Canada's painters with the amazing skill in drawing and composition that seems to be natural to the Japanese artists.

This exhibition is at present housed in the C. P. R. Building, which has been very successfully decorated for the occasion after the Japanese manner. The ceiling is covered with lattice work from which hang countless wisteria blossoms, while branches of cherry blossoms shroud the upper walls.

To carry out the Japanese idea, the entire wall of the building is covered by a large full colored electrically operated working model of Yokohama and Tokyo Harbors, up and down which pass models of the new Canadian Pacific Express steamships that run from Vancouver and Victoria to the Orient. On the hillside in the foreground are many beautifully constructed models of Japanese houses, varying from the cottages of peasant farmers to the homes of the aristocracy, and tiny Japanese carriages, and tiny Japanese cars.

Colored transparencies in all parts of the building present the noted beauties of the country's points of scenic interest, and give further representations of Japanese life.

Trans-Canada Route.
On another wall the St. Lawrence route to Europe is featured with a working model of Quebec Harbor, thus typifying with its companion picture the great Trans-Canada route from Europe to the Orient.

As though seen from the deck of a passing steamship, the rock of Quebec extends, radiant in the sunshine. At its base working models of the Express Atlantic ships are shown, and rising from among the steeples and spires of the old city is the new twenty-story tower of the Chateau Frontenac.

In somewhat similar fashion the West Indies are depicted as though seen from the stern of the steamship Express of British Columbia, and this year being one of the C. P. R. liners making a winter cruise of the southern seas.

On the east side of the Machinery Hall stands a fully equipped C. P. R. train, which is visited by an unending stream of people from daylight to dark. This train represents the other big feature of the exhibition, and the first class evidence that Canadian workmen in the C. P. R. shops are the equal of any in the world. The train includes diner, coal, sleeper and compartment cars, and stands with its crew as though ready to move. The tables are set in the dining car and the berths are made up, and altogether it is an excellent object lesson of the spotlessness and comfort of C. P. R. equipment.

BIRTHRATE IN U. S. DECLINES

At Same Time Deathrate Reported on Increase.

Washington, Aug. 31.—The birth rate in the United States is declining and the death rate is increasing, according to statistics made public to-day by the Census Bureau, covering the first quarter of the year.

The birth rate in the states for which figures are available averaged 23.3 for each thousand of population in the first three months of 1922, against 25.3 in 1921, while the mortality averaged in the first quarter this year was 13.7, against 12.6 last year.

"Didn't I give you a piece of pie last week?" demanded the old lady of the tramp. "I didn't expect to see you again so soon." "I fooled you, ma'am," was the answer. "I didn't eat it."

Winners of Exhibition Contest

The following numbers won the prizes at our guessing contest during the exhibition week. The correct number of cans in the display was 3508. Two people were correct.

Three divide second prize. Two gave 3507; one gave 3509. Three divide third prize. Two estimated 3510; one guessed 3506.

Prizes will be divided equally—that is, first prize divided between two; second between three; and so on. Holders of these numbers will be paid at this office. Please call.

IMMIGRATION CANADA'S NEED

third party unnecessary in Canadian politics.

Meighen's Attitude.

"The one criticism I have to make of my distinguished adversary, the present Leader of the Opposition in Parliament, is that his whole attitude appears to be one of 'I'll-will,' said the Prime Minister. 'His sarcasm, never too refined, has given place, under the disappointment of defeat, to a poignant bitterness. He is a Sir Lamer Godin said of him, a poor loser. Everyone is in the wrong but himself.'"

Common Aims.
Mentioning the co-operation between the Liberals and the Progressives at the recent session of Parliament, Mr. King said:

"I think the actions of the session have been sufficient to disclose that neither the Liberals nor the Progressives have any institutional animosity with the Tory Opposition, with the Tory attitude or principles or methods, and I think this has helped to demonstrate the great relative advantage of each of a closer union in seeking to work out the aims we have in common."

Centralization.
Premier King said he had noted a tendency in Canada toward centralization, and that the government which, to his way of thinking, was hazardous, if not most dangerous. It was perilous to national life and it was fraught equally with peril to inter-imperial relations. Most curious of all was the circumstance that it was from the provinces themselves that the danger of centralization arose. For instance, in connection with the marketing of grain, the prairie provinces had come to view with suspicion the restraint which the legislation imposed for the safeguarding of contracts, by reserving in such matters, also, with respect to unemployment and the fuel famine, the provinces looked to the Federal Government for relief.

When the coal miners' strike occurred in Nova Scotia, it was to the Federal authorities that an immediate appeal was made for troops.

We shall have to amend our constitution and the spirit of it as well, if, whenever industrial disputes arise and the alarm can be sounded loudly enough, the Department of National Defence is to be looked to for the supply of military, naval or air forces," said Mr. King.

Harmony Desired.
"As I see the division of functions and power under our constitution in such matters which affect local liberties and local interests and in a larger way provincial liberties and provincial interests, it is not for the Federal Government to usurp the rights and powers reserved by the constitution to localities and provinces, nor for localities and provinces to shift their pigmy's for solution into the Federal arena. It is for both Federal and Provincial Governments to see that their respective rights and powers are exercised in accord and co-operating wherever possible to bring about a truer harmony and a wider unity among the self-governing elements of our vast Dominion."

Addressed Women.
Yesterday afternoon Premier King addressed the annual meeting of the Women's Liberal Association of Ontario.

"Liberalism must start in the home to uphold the principles of liberty and this build our great Empire," he declared.

New liberty and new freedom were required for the people of Canada, he said. A knowledge of history, geography and the resources of the country must be possessed in order to understand present-day problems.

The individual citizen must have a voice in the affairs of the country. There were two antagonistic types, the militant and the industrial, he said. Through the expression of individual action a great industrial commonwealth could be built up and war could not take place. A woman's present mission was a great one and should be directed to the art of healing and teaching.

Premier King urged the women of the organization to make a thorough study of the constitution of the country, to aid the development of Canada's representative and responsible government and to realize that Liberalism signified an attitude of moderation and toleration.

FOUND LIQUOR
IN WATERMELON

Sioux City, Ia., Aug. 31.—Police here, answering a call last night, found Andy Rodisch, Andy Klatt and a watermelon.

Klatt and Rodisch were on the verge of a fight to decide which one would get the last portion of the melon.

The police investigated. It smelled and tasted like moonshine whisky, they said, so Rodisch and Klatt were taken to the police station and charged with intoxication.

Now the police are on the trail of a bootlegger, who, it appears, has hit upon the idea of pouring whisky into a watermelon and selling it as a "Georgia Cocktail."

NEW MEMORIAL AT LAKE WINDERMERE

David Thompson Fort-Museum Is Dedicated

Lake Windermere, B. C., Aug. 31.—Citizens of Canada and the United States gathered here yesterday and dedicated a monument to the memory of David Thompson, the first white man to establish a trading post in Southern British Columbia on the shore of Lake Windermere.

In a spot near the site of the original fort, the Canadian Pacific Railway and the Hudson's Bay Company had erected a log fort, with bastions and a palisade, which will be maintained as a perpetual monument to the life work of Thompson, who had more to do than any other man with opening up the Columbia and Kootenay River valleys to civilization. Thompson's body was buried more than sixty years ago in a Montreal cemetery.

A pageant was re-enacted of scenes of a century ago, in which David Thompson and party, with a flotilla of six canoes, in which were voyageurs singing French songs, landed on the shore, greeted by the firing of guns and followed by a picturesque reception by the tribes, in which Thompson used the universal sign language of the Indians. The procession then proceeded slowly up the high bank of the lake to the Indian encampment, where representatives of two tribes of Indians had pitched their tepees, making a picturesque background for the pageant.

The fort will serve as a museum for local antiquities and Indian handicrafts.

Hon. J. H. King, Federal Minister of Public Works, representing the Canadian Government; John Murray Gibson, representing the Canadian Authors' Association; Bliss Carnahan, a poet, written for the occasion by himself, and prominent citizens of the Prairie provinces and of the United States were present to do honor to the memory of the pioneer.

These included James Thompson, Winnipeg, representing the Hudson's Bay Company; and Colonel J. S. Dennis, of the C. P. R.

Among the prominent guests were Prof. W. C. Allison, Winnipeg; C. Elliott, Walla Walla, Wash.; Dr. Mark Wade, official representative of the city of Kamloops; Mr. and Mrs. J. Murray Gibson, Montreal; Mrs. Madge Macbeth, Ottawa; Mrs. Isabelle Ecclestone Mackay, Vancouver; Mrs. Francis Reeve (Onota Watanna), Calgary; Mrs. Lawrence Burpee, Ottawa; Mr. and Mrs. Nichol, Chicago; Judge Howey, New Westminster; Miss Marjorie Briggs, Dean of the Bureau of Commercial Economics, Washington, D. TO-DAY'S DECISION.

Many political commentators have argued for some time past that the Entente could not survive such a difference in policy as that which has existed and continues to exist between Great Britain and France. Others have supported their hopes for a continuance of the old relations by contending that fundamental differences will always exist by common consent and a due recognition of national characteristics. Between these two views and a good deal of plain talk on both sides of the English Channel there stands an invisible monument to heavy sacrifice in a common cause.

Those who continue to believe that the best interests of the British Empire could be served by more cordial relations between its component parts and the United States are not alarmed about the fate of the Entente. To that school which is unalterably opposed to any change in Britain's continental policy, which sees a hopeless Europe without an Anglo-French understanding of a definite character, the suggestion of a break comes as a forerunner of more war and a continuance of international hatreds.

So far Premier Poincaré has adopted an intensively militaristic attitude upon the platform; but he has been slow to commit his country definitely. After today's decision he must translate his words into actions or alter his tune. Le Journal seems to help him when it declares that to-day must be "the inauguration of a new era in which France has the intention of taking the lead, and in which the future of the Entente itself is at stake." Thus as the two Allies stand at the parting of the ways France would collect by force and Britain would wait and hope.

OUR ARCHIVES.

Sir William Schooling's suggestion that the Provincial Archives Department might well contain a great deal more historical detail than it does serves to remind us that we who are so close to such a highly valuable and interesting collection of records of British Columbia's early history do not appreciate it anything like as much as the visitor who comes to learn something about Vancouver Island and the part it has played in the building of this great Dominion. We doubt very much whether more than an exceedingly small percentage of the population of this city and neighborhood has made any thing more than a cursory study of this valuable property. As a matter of fact the impression that the buildings and their contents were more or less the private preserve of the politician and the public servant—except when departmental business demanded attendance—had gained ground so much at one time that it was necessary to remind the people that the property belonged to them—and was paid for with their money. It is perhaps another case of the old adage about familiarity and seems to be on all fours with the manner in which the average Londoner sees the interior of Westminster Abbey and St. Paul's Cathedral for the first time—in company with a country cousin who comes to "do" the big city from end to end in a week.

THOSE CONGRATULATIONS.

In the list of congratulatory messages to Mr. Bowser we do not seem to be able to discover one from the Kamloops band of Tories which commenced the revolt against its leader some time ago. None the less it is interesting to observe that the Young Conservative Association in Vancouver has relented and is now to be found profoundly gratified that the recent convention made no change. In the case of the Terminal City body one can readily believe that the parent association scented the danger of defection and duly admonished the young hopefuls. But there is only one brand of Tory in Kamloops. Be he a member of the Liberal-Conservative Party, or be he an adherent of the Young-Meighen League, he is shrewd enough to realize that British Columbia cannot hope to be "blessed" with a Tory Government as long as the present Leader of the Opposition remains in the saddle. Of course it is not too late for them to join in the chorus of which we have heard. Yet from the tone of the famous letter which Kamloops sent to Mr. Bowser we gather that the Vancouver decision was a keen disappointment.

WAR CLOUDS.

Were it not for the fact that the hand of time reminds us that it is actually more than eight years since the European war broke out we should be inclined to take more than ordinary alarm at the color of a large number of news dispatches which are now reaching this country every day. At no time since the clash of arms ceased on the Western front in the November of 1918 has the Old World presented such a complex and threatening outlook. Overshadowing practically everything else is the reparations controversy and the possibilities that obtrude as one visualizes French collection by force.

In Southeastern Europe the plight of Austria is beginning to create concern for her future. Italy seems to be making covert bids that are not far from the promise of absorbing the bankrupt state through a process of economic procedure. The Little Entente is similarly interested and naturally desirous of adding more to the territory which obtained its independence when the old Hapsburg Empire went on the carving block. Russia's almost hopeless condition and her own peculiar fears of invasion from the West are responsible for the maintenance of disproportionately large armies by Poland and the Baltic countries. Turkey and Greece are at one another's throats and peace seems to be as far off as it was twelve months ago.

In addition to these actual conditions the world is being constantly informed of new discoveries that will revolutionize the warfare of the future. The value of practically every mechanical device whose development has exercised the scientific realm for any length of time is assessed by its destructive possibilities. Defence plans that once were reckoned in terms of armies and battle ships and now being discussed in terms of aircraft and all the super-diabolism of the age.

Are these the things for which the world fought? It cannot be said that the war produced the reign of international goodwill that was hoped for. Happily there is a silver lining in the cloud, as shown by the attitude of Great Britain and the United States. But all the agencies for good must bestir themselves if "the future war" is to remain only a term. Upon the churches and the newspapers of the world devolves a great responsibility. There must be a demand upon the part of the people that there shall be no more war. Peace must be more popular than belligerent politics. Sabre-fencing nationalism must break down before a brotherhood of man.

A GOOD YARN!

It is somewhat amusing to discover that Vancouver should work itself up into a white heat over the ridiculous suggestion that Victoria maintained a paid agent in Seattle to divert tourist travel from the Mainland of this Province to Vancouver Island. Those in touch with publicity matters in the Terminal City will not need reminding that Victoria's Bureau would be wasting its time and finances were it to embark on a policy of this kind. It is obvious to most people that visitors from the United States come to this part of Canada because they have heard all about it through the agency of the Pacific Northwest Tourist Association and its auxiliary bodies—of which the Victoria bureau is one. To advise them against going to the Mainland would be like barring them from entering Canada from the West. Our geographical position is one of insularity; but Vancouver-Islanders possess the broader outlook—and they know better than to pay an agent to insult the intelligence of their invited guests from the South. That agent is a booster of Vancouver Island; not a critic of Vancouver.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Amid all the reports of wars and rumors of wars it is worth while remembering that Canada is busily engaged in harvesting a bumper grain crop.

Practically every national movement maintains a paid organizer and a chain of hard working branches. Nobody seems to be able to afford an organizer for a League of Nations Association.

DAYLIGHT SAVING

To the Editor—I was very glad to see in the Times a letter from a worker in favor of daylight saving. One cannot understand people living in the cities not appreciating it more, and as for the children, they have had their holiday this year, but know of people working in the city who have not been able to afford one. When I was a youngster I was sent to bed in daylight some part of the year—but grew up a strong, healthy woman and at the same time managed to acquire a fairly good education. There are a great many people employed in offices, shops, factories, etc., to whom I am sure this extra hour of daylight and sunlight would be most acceptable, and I sincerely beg the Mayor and aldermen to reconsider their idea of depriving these people of it, and hope that they will grant the extra hour during September.

A MOTHER OF WORKERS

$7.50 PER WEEK.

To the Editor.—In conclusion I beg to remind Mr. Foster that I was discussing economics and was well within my rights in taking as I did a historical retrospect of the development of otherwise of trade as a cause of the British miner's discontent. By what manner of mental process did he charge me with diverting the issue from the miners' strike? In order to understand miners and their concepts you must understand their environment. Since he admitted that he never worked in a mine and since I have had a mining experience of something like a quarter of a century, some technical training, etc., I egotistically supposed I could instruct him when I found him so hopelessly lost regarding causation of the British miners' present situation, but my good intentions were spurned. Ah, well! I will give him, anyway, the credit of consistency for he started with a venomous attack on the miners and their union, continued clear through in the same way, and finished with added insults.

It is passing strange how the miner can go a hundred miles in a special train to take in football, horse racing, cruises, cock and dog fights, and take suite and sweatshirt on the magnificent sum of $7.50 per week, but one is likely to hear anything else that does not know there is a strike in the United States.

ARRANGE POST SEASON SERIES

New Haven, Conn., Aug. 31.—A post season series of three games between the Baltimore Orioles and the New Haven team was arranged to-day by President Weiss, of the latter club. This will bring the pennant winners of the Eastern League and winners of the International League together here beginning September 25.

PREMIER ATTACKS PROHIBITION HEAD

This report was adopted without a division. To me it seems a strange thing that you are apparently supporting the political party whose election returning officers procured the fraudulent votes, 4,697 in number, in the 1916 election. Please explain if you can.

The 1917 Measure
Following the adoption of the report before mentioned, a Bill was introduced, amending Chapter 49, 1917, bringing into force the B.C. Prohibition Act.

"Of the votes cast overseas and admitted to be valid, a very large majority were against prohibition, and during the discussion of Chapter 49, 1917, it was claimed that if all the men entitled to vote had voted and in the same proportion as those who had voted, it was admitted that right to vote prohibition would have been defeated. In answer to this, in answer to this there were others like myself who held that as prohibition had been carried by those who had voted in Canada, prohibition should be effective until after the close of the war, and that the voters who were overseas had returned the question of prohibition could again be submitted to the electorate. I considered this was a reasonable position to take. I considered the statement I had made in 1917, as above, was binding upon me in 1920.

Responsibility for Enforcement.

It was, I think, in 1919 when certain persons presented a draft, called a Moderate Bill, to the consideration of the Government. The Government refused to act on the proposed Bill, holding that it should be no further reference to the people until the voters had returned from overseas.

You say, "In 1919 British Columbia had in force the Prohibition Act, which was poorly enforced." Quite true. Section 29 of the Act placed the responsibility of enforcement upon both Provincial and Municipal police. It is a fair assumption that the Municipal police were to enforce the law in the municipality and the Provincial police were to enforce the law in the territory not municipally organized. Approximately 85% of the population of B. C. is in municipalities where nearly all the breaches of the law occurred. It is fair to assume that at least 85% of the responsibility for non-enforcement was municipal. Yet you and your associates appear to have directed your attacks for alleged non-enforcement against the Provincial Government.

Impugn Motives of Government.

You say of the 1916 Prohibition Act, "One of its weaknesses was that liquor could be freely imported from outside the Province and this liquor so imported became the source of supply for bootlegging operations." Quite so. Mr. Maynard and I at the same time obtained a license to sell liquor when the Government seeks legislation from the Dominion to prevent private importation because it was the source of supply for the bootlegger, you and your associates impugn the motives of the Government and your Prohibition Bulletin in the remarks made by Sir George E. Foster in opposing the power (which you say was wanted) to strengthen the Prohibition Act, being given to the Government to strengthen their position when dealing with the bootlegger.

Conflicting Opinions.

I wish, however, to come back to the position in 1920. To my mind there was a distinct undertaking that those voters who were overseas returned, they should have a say as to whether a prohibitory law should obtain in B. C. There was a large and persistent demand for such a law, termed themselves "Moderationists" that liquor should be obtainable for private use under conditions which would, in a few years, prevent export and abuse. There were others who wished for the open sale of beer and wines, and there were others who, like yourself, irrespective of whether the Government should continue, and made more drastic by preventing private importation.

Change in Electorate

In addition to the above factors there was one other factor which strongly to my mind and it was this: That a majority of those entitled to vote under the Elections Act, Chapter 27, 1920, were entitled to vote on the prohibition of 1916, the majority here referred to being electors overseas and not voting in 1916, whereas the voters added in 1916 and voters added to the list after 1916.

You say, "Premier Oliver is the man who, on behalf of the Government, denied to the prohibition party the right to obtain from the Dominion Government a referendum on the question of the prohibition of liquor from outside the Province." In my opinion this is neither a true statement nor a resolution moved by myself on April 16, 1920, reads as follows: "That should a majority of the electors of the Province of British Columbia vote in favor of the continuing in force of the B.C. Prohibition Act, the taking of a referendum under the provisions of part 4 of the Canada Temperance Act would be desirable. And that this House would, at its first opportunity, request His Excellency the Governor-General to submit to the electors of the Province of British Columbia the question of whether or no the importation of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes should be prohibited." I can scarcely conceive how such a resolution can be construed as a denial of a right. The difference between myself and you appears to be that I wished to know the will of the electors before proceeding to petition for prohibition of imports, while you were desirous of imposing your will upon the people, irrespective as to whether they liked it or not.

"Now were you or was I justified by the result? The vote was taken with knowledge that if prohibition was endorsed the Government would seek to have the Act strengthened by the prohibition of private importation. Yet the electors said by a vote of 50,885 to 55,448, a majority of 35,437—that they did not want prohibition.

Not Party Measure.

The Liquor Control Act was not made a party measure. Every member of the Legislature, at least as far as the Government was concerned, was left absolutely free of party influence in dealing with the measure. The Government, during and requesting the assistance of every member in preparing the legislation. How were they met by the party you now appear to be supporting? When an address to the Lieutenant-Governor was to be presented, asking for a Bill to give effect to the will of the people, every Conservative voted "nay" and every Liberal, Independent and Labor member in the House voted "yea." At another stage of the proceedings every Conservative member shirked responsibility by leaving his seat in the House.

Bootlegging Basis.

But to come back to the question of restriction of importation, the basis of bootlegging.—On March 3, 1920, I moved a resolution in the House of Commons, to the effect that Dominion legislation prohibiting private importation. This was opposed by Bowser and his party, the Liberals, and the Conservatives, and 22 Liberals and others for. After the session I went to Ottawa and asked the Government to introduce the desired legislation, which they refused to do. In 1922 we asked the Liberal Government at Ottawa for the needed legislation. They said "Yes." The Bill passed the House of Commons, but the Conservative Senate, at the instigation of Messrs. Barnard and Green, aided by Sir Geo. E. Foster, being given the defeat that portion needed by British Columbia.

In conclusion let me ask you a few questions:

1. If the Dominion can permit a province to prohibit imports of liquor under a "Prohibition Act," why can they not do the same under a "Liquor Control Act?"
2. If prohibition of imports of liquor was desirable in 1920, why was not such prohibition desirable in 1921 and 1922?
3. Is it the policy of the Prohibition party to prevent, if possible, the successful operation of the Liquor Control Act upon the theory that by so doing the electors will the sooner again favor prohibition?

TRAMWAY FENCE FACE WAGE CUT

London, Aug. 31.—(Canadian Press Cable).—The tramway workers throughout England are facing the prospect of a reduction of twelve shillings a week in their wages, the reduction to be made in three instalments. The workers will resist the reduction.

It is asserted that the municipal tramways throughout the country are being conducted at a loss of about $250,000 annually.

SAANICH TAX SALE TO START SATURDAY

Is Factor in Financial Stability: Choice Parcels in Offerings

At ten o'clock on Saturday morning Saanich will hold its annual tax sale at Royal Oak, an event which has become one of the factors in the remarkable financial position of the municipality among British Columbia communities, never having been passed over since 1915, when 1,200 properties were sold to clear up the after-boom slump.

On Saturday Assessor Sewell will probably have about two hundred items to offer, the list of properties at present numbering 340 parcels, but being rapidly reduced by last minute redemptions. Two months ago the list of tax sale eligibles totalled nearly 700 parcels.

The quality of many of the properties involved is such as to indicate that many interested parties are deliberately allowing their lands to go to tax sale, in order to clear up titles. Some of the finest residential properties of Wards Three and Seven are included in the sale list.

The lands to be offered are well scattered all over Saanich, with a majority of the properties located in Ward Four, where small lots created by subdivision of isolated lands appear to be abandoned. It is expected that these lots will be bought up by the owners of the bulk of the subdivisions, with a view to securing reversion of the lands to acreage, not permissible while owners of separate lots are in a position to demand right of access by roads through the lands.

PETER MANNING SETS NEW TROTTER MARK

Reading, Mass., Aug. 31.—Peter Manning, the champion trotter, broke another track record yesterday afternoon at the second day's programme of the Grand Circuit meeting at Readingville Park, negotiating a mile in 1:59.4, one-quarter faster than the best time of the winner in the Pilgrimage, held jointly by Peter Manning and Lou Dillon.

Csarworthy, driven by Thomas W. Murphy, won the Massachusetts stake, valued at $5,000, in straight heats, but the gelding was forced to his limit in every heat by Peter the Brewer, the finisher being so close in the first and third heats that the result was in doubt until announced by the judges.

Walter Cox drove the winners, Abbedale being the winner in the Pilgrimage, held jointly by Peter Manning and Lou Dillon.

URGE SITTINGS HERE

Canadian Legion Would Like Pension Commission to Function Locally.

A resolution urging that sittings of the Royal Commission on pensions and post war problems be held in this city to deal with many cases that would then present themselves was passed at a meeting of the Canadian Legion, Victoria, last night. Comrade H. D. Twigg was in the chair.

The resolution read: "Whereas there are many post-war problems in Victoria and also throughout Vancouver Island, B. C., and whereas the naval ex-servicemen are very largely represented in this district, and whose post-war problems are many, and apparently very little understood at Ottawa, and whereas there is every evidence here that the question of tubercular cases in British Columbia requires very serious consideration at the earliest possible opportunity, and whereas the land settlement question as it affects British Columbia is of such a nature that it requires first-hand evidence to thoroughly understand it, and whereas there are many Canadian ex-servicemen in the large American Coast cities who send their representatives here for information concerning their affairs, therefore be it resolved that the members of the Canadian Legion are of the opinion that it would be of the utmost importance to all concerned if the scope of the investigations of the Royal Commission includes a visit to the city of Victoria."

"And further be it resolved that this resolution be forwarded to the chairman of the Royal Commission requesting that they include Victoria in their itinerary."

It was reported that six additional veterans had joined the organization and that twelve members had been found temporary employment. It was urged that representations be made to the authorities to create a public holiday on September 1st, either in respect or jointly with the observance of Thanksgiving Day. J. R. Strang, of Portland, spoke briefly on ex-soldier movements.

FOUGHT WITH GRIZZLY BEAR

Hand to Hand Conflict at Usk When Bruin Succumbed to Pike Pole

To engage in hand-to-hand combat with a grizzly bear is not an adventure many would care to experience, but Mr. Edgar has the hide of one as a souvenir of a hair-raising time, says the U.S. correspondent of the Omnipress. Edna Edgar and a girl friend were sauntering along a bar of the Skeena near the Edgar farm at Vanarsdol when they espied two of the shaggy brutes towering on a bluff twenty feet above.

Answering the calls of the girls, Mr. Edgar, armed with a rifle, was in a boat when hostilities were opened, and on both sides, a bullet took one of the grizzlies in the spine, but was not sufficient to prevent the brute from jumping into the river and attacking the boat.

With an empty gun, Edgar was brought into close quarters with his hairy antagonist, his only means of defence being a pike pole, with which he jabbed repeatedly at the bear's head. The sharp-pointed of the weapon finally found a billet, and the fight was over. The carcass was towed ashore, and Edgar now has his skin.

INDIANS BENEFIT FROM REVIVALS

Agent Here From Hazelton Says Game Has Suffered From Fires

It would rejoice the heart of George Whitefield to have heard of a revival among the Indians. When stories came from the Hazelton district this Spring that the Indians were holding their own revival meetings there were skeptics down in the coast cities. However, E. Hyde, the Indian agent in that district in succession to the veteran, R. E. Loring, told The Times at the Dominion Hotel yesterday that there has been quite a justification for the stories, in that a number of meetings were held by the aborigines with their own bands, when the same evangelical zeal was manifested that has marked revivals elsewhere. The meetings were often kept up to 11 and 12 o'clock at night by the zealous.

It has had a beneficial result in decreasing the troubles from illicit drinking, Mr. Hyde states. In fact the chief obstacle to thrift and the growth of saving bank accounts—a policy which has won considerable support among the tribes—has been the fur bootlegger, the agent says. This nondescript person roams over the unsettled portion of the province, here to-day and gone to-morrow, with an inferior brand of whisky, which he uses with effect and easily influenced Indians. He bargains with them for their furs, and to close the bargain offers equal prices to the reputable fur buying firms established at various points and towns, with the added stimulus of a bottle of liquor if the Indians will trade with him. There has been considerable difficulty in checking this illicit sale system, and the Indian agents are doing all they can to stamp it out.

Mr. Hyde adds that a considerable quantity of timber has been destroyed in the Babine Lake and other districts by fire this year, and not only will there be the loss of the timber, but the game has been destroyed or driven away in the conflagrations, so that the trapping results this Winter will be reduced. It is not known yet to what extent the loss will represent in decreased trapping proceeds.

Mr. Hyde left for Vancouver to-day after meeting Chief Inspector Ditchburn on agency matters.

The baby show held under the auspices of the Victoria and District Liberal Association in the Liberal Club yesterday afternoon was a great success, and no less than twenty-five or thirty babies appeared before the group of medical experts and nurses to have their physical status defined and recorded.

The prizes of course, will not be awarded until the cards on which the reports have been tabulated have been carefully gone over and the baby with the highest number of points located.

The baby show was one of the postponed items which could not be held at the recent Liberal picnic on account of the rain. The club was crowded with Liberal women-folk and their off-spring, the affair having been restricted to babies twelve months of age or under. There were some exhibited as young as three months.

The work of the judges and nurses was carried out in a very professional and excellent way. Record cards had been printed for the occasion and the success and all particulars in each case were set down. The judges were: Doctors J. P. Vye, G. W. Graham, M. W. Thomas and M. J. Keyes. The nurses who assisted were: Miss Oliver, Miss Sears and Mrs. Lucas of the Saanich Victorian Order of Nurses.

So successful and pleasing was the affair that the Liberal Association has decided to hold an annual baby show in which there will be a one-year and a two-year class.

The tombola prizes was won by Mrs. Youngs, 1417 Vancouver Street, the prize being a beautiful upholstered chair donated by Smith & Champion of Douglas Street.

MAKES APPEAL FOR CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Excellent Addresses at Presbytery of Victoria

A strong appeal for the cause of practical Christianity and the exhortation of the church from unfair criticism, was made by Rev. Dr. Wilson in an address last evening at the open conference of the Presbytery of Victoria at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

As Christians we ought to agree never to train our guns on ourselves," said Dr. Wilson, who challenged the press on its too ready attitude of criticism against the church and asked that the press show wherein the church had failed and what other organization had not.

The church is the only thing above the horizon to-day which has not been a failure in keeping the world well," he declared, urging that while the church might be becoming humiliated herself before God for doing so little, she should face her critics here with pride in her achievement.

If there were more generous support and sympathy given church work instead of criticism greater success would be achieved, said Dr. Wilson, whose address was entitled "The Responsibility of the Church and Minister in the Life and Mind of the Ministry of Jesus."

Rev. Dr. Clay opened the conference, which was presided over by the Moderator, Rev. Mr. Dobbin, of Qualicum. "There is nothing in learning, nothing in wealth, nothing in social prestige that will equip the church of Christ for the task she is supposed to perform. It is through fellowship with Jesus Christ or nowhere that the church is to find the secret of her life and power-for-advance," said Dr. Clay. The Pentecostal spirit must be restored if the church were to do her best work.

"How Best to Make an Intensive Study of the Mind and Life of Jesus," was the subject of an address by Rev. A. Munro, of Nanaimo, and others who spoke included Rev. Dr. Maclean, Rev. Daniel Walker, Rev. David Lister (Nanaimo), John McLaurie and others.

Rev. Samuel Lumby was appointed at the afternoon session to take the church at Sooke for six months, and other appointments must be made by the home mission committee.

Mr. Reid of Ladysmith, presented the report of the committee on religious education for the year.

Rev. H. T. Archibald and Dr. Miller addressed the conference during the afternoon and its representatives of the Vancouver Island Council of Social Hygiene outlined the work that was being done and emphasized the necessity of sound religious training for the child.

A call from St. Columba Church to Major the Rev. J. H. White, late of Alberta, was presented and accepted.

EXPLOSION IN MINE AT CUMBERLAND TOOK SIXTEEN MEN'S LIVES

Heroism Witnessed. The work of rescue in the depth of the mine and with only the light of the safety lamps to guide went on hour after hour until all but three of the forty-four men who had gone on shift had been accounted for. These three were Chinese. There were many pitiful and heroic scenes. Nurse Bellotti, in particular, worked with a devotion and a disregard of danger that won her the admiration of all.

One of the Japanese who was recovered but afterwards died in hospital was found by a search party of rock under which he was buried. He was quite conscious and suffered himself to be uncovered with a superb stoicism.

Great Anxiety. As the work went on all the town hung with feverish anxiety to hear the results. The long line of stretchers brought on from the mine near Comox Lake to the hospital or the morgue was watched with the most intense anxiety.

Altogether twenty-seven men were recovered and brought out in the first feverish course of rescue work of whom nine were dead and the others more or less seriously burned by the explosion or crushed by caving in of the rock.

MacAdam Brought Out. Ed. MacAdam, president of the Esquimalt C. W. V. A., one of the seriously injured men, was caught by a fall of rock and had several ribs broken. His condition is the most serious in that he had previously been badly crippled at the front of the mine, who was only slightly burned, started to walk once when he heard MacAdam groaning and went back and got assistance and had him brought out.

By Aeroplane. Charles Graham, Superintendent of the mine, Tom Mordy and Miss Graham were in Vancouver, having gone to the Mainland to a conference of hospital boards. At once, on hearing of the disaster, they chartered a hydroaeroplane and came to Union Bay to assist. From all over the district and far down the island came willing assistance in speeding cars but when they arrived they found that the situation was well in hand.

It is five years since there was an explosion in a Cumberland mine in which fatal accidents were involved. The last explosion was in 1917, when four men were killed and eight injured. No. 4 mine is very little damaged and work could be resumed on Saturday, if desirable, but it is probable that nothing will be done until after the funerals of the victims on Monday.

Cumberland, B. C., Aug. 31.—(Canadian Press.) Sixteen men were killed and eighteen injured in the explosion which occurred yesterday afternoon in the No. 4 coal mine of the Canadian Collieries (Dunsmuir) Ltd. here. All of the bodies have been recovered.

The cause of the explosion can not be determined pending the findings of preliminary investigation, which is now in progress. One report suggests that a blast of gas, which was very little damaged to the mine. Another report says that a blast exploded prematurely before the men at work in the neighborhood could be warned.

Miss E. Bellotti, a nurse, insisted on accompanying Dr. W. Hicks and the rescue party down into the mine and began the work of removing the dead and injured. Four of the injured died in hospital.

With the first reports of the explosion terrified residents of the town rushed to the mine. On all sides were to be seen grief-stricken relatives of those who were known to be in the mine.

Relief Parties. Relief parties were quickly organized, stretchers hastily summoned and ambulances brought to the scene of the disaster. Dr. W. Hicks started to enter the mine and a moment later Nurse Bellotti, despite his protests, was at his side. "I know I'm needed," she said.

As the pump-house was turned into a first aid station and everyone began working at top speed to give the sufferers relief. Dr. Hicks, Dr. H. Carson and Nurse Bellotti were in the thick of it and until the last victim was on the way to the hospital this morning efforts were not slackened.

Forty-four in Mine. There were forty-four men working in the mine at the time the explosion occurred—17 white men, 14 Japanese and 13 Chinese. No. 4 mine is one of similar Cumberland mines which are entered by road and not down a shaft, and the men were working at a distance of about a mile from the entrance. They were employed a little off the main road into the mine when the accident occurred.

Went by Plane. Charles Graham, the manager of the mine, was in Vancouver during the day, but as soon as he was notified of the accident he chartered a hydroaeroplane and arrived on the scene during the evening.

Minister's Comment. "The news of the accident in the Cumberland mines of the Canadian Collieries (Dunsmuir) Ltd., which occurred yesterday and in which there were several fatalities and a number of men injured, is very distressing and I might also add, is inexplicable having in mind the precautions taken," stated Hon. William Sloan, Minister of Mines, this morning.

"No official report is available yet," he said. "Steps are being taken to secure all possible information. James McGregor, chief inspector of mines, accompanied by George Wilkinson, mining engineer, former chief inspector of mines for the Province, left by motor car early this morning for Cumberland. Mr. Wilkinson has been given a special commission, and, along with Mr. McGregor, will make a thorough and complete investigation in order that responsibility for the accident may be fixed if possible. If by inquiry it should be found that there is any practical method of further securing the underground worker against such lamentable occurrences the necessary action will be taken without delay."

Accident Inexplicable. "I have said that this Cumberland accident is inexplicable to me," continued Mr. Sloan. "This is so for several reasons. First of these is that no blasting has been permitted in the no-blasting workings affected for some time. Another is that none but modern electric safety lamps have been in use by the Canadian Collieries in this area. I am informed that the outbreak had its source at the long wall workings of No. 2 Slope, No. 4 mine, in use by one of the similar Cumberland mines which are entered by road and not down a shaft, and the men were working at a distance of about a mile from the entrance. They were employed a little off the main road into the mine when the accident occurred."

VICTOR ELIOT IS SENTENCED

Receives Six Months in England for Fraud

Bound over on a similar charge in January last, Victor Alexander George Eliot recently came up on remand at Windsor, England, accused of obtaining credit by false pretences.

Mr. Eliot lived in Victoria before the war, and was engaged in real estate here.

The Chief Constable explained to the court that there were nine charges, but as he understood defendant was pleading guilty to the first three he offered no evidence on the others. Eliot had obtained credit by presenting cheques on the bank of Sir Charles McElroy and Co., and having no account with the bank had no right to draw cheques on it. In each case it appeared defendant traded on the statement that he was a son of the late Dean of Windsor and half-brother of the Bishop of Buckingham.

The solicitor defending stated that when war broke out Mr. Eliot was in British Columbia and soon joined up.

Eliot was wounded twice and saw service at Vimy Ridge. It was suggested that, like many others, owing to his terrible war experience, defendant lost sense of responsibility and mental balance, because up to the close of the war he had an unblemished character.

Eliot was sentenced to six months in the second division for the first charge, and three months on the second charge, the sentences to run concurrently.

The chairman of the bench added that Eliot had already been given a chance to retrieve his character and had not taken it.

WAS CONSCRIPTED AS FIREFIGHTER

Amusing Experience of Visitor to Island Is Told

An amusing story is related in yesterday's issue of The Vancouver World of a visitor to Vancouver Island, who was compelled to assist in fighting a fire in the Merville district. The story reads as follows:

"When is a holiday not a holiday? When it is spent as a conscripted firefighter, is the answer of Dave Jenkins, well-known to every lawyer in Alberta as former chief supreme court stenographer of that Province, and now official Hansard reporter for the Alberta Legislature.

"With callouses on his hands, an aching back, and with his erstwhile form-fitting clothing hanging loosely over him, but declaring he never felt in better shape in his life, Jenkins passed through Vancouver to-day on his way back to Edmonton. He has been holidaying on the island and was caught in the dragnet for firefighters during the recent forest fires.

"For eighteen days I worked with a pick and a mattock," he said. "I argued all I could, brought up all the legal points I could, but when I saw a New Yorker yanked out of a Cadillac car and put to work after first being fined $250 for refusing to fight fire, I decided I had better take the pick and mattock and get busy. Here's the result," and he laughingly held out two hands well blistered and calloused.

"And look at this," he said as he showed the space now available in a waistcoat that formerly fitted snugly. "The Alberta man was caught in the dragnet for firefighters for the Merville fire, and states that although he has seen prairie fires at various times, he had no conception of what a forest fire could mean until he was in the fighting line on this occasion.

"And don't think those fire rangers are not bosses," he added. "They are on the job all the time, and they make you keep at it. The New Yorker said: 'I'm a visitor, and the only reply he got was, 'You're the fellow that start these fires. We're looking for you visitors. Get busy. And when he refused they called a J. P. out of the fire-fighting line, fined him, and then put him to work anyway. That was enough for me. I was an enthusiastic fire-fighter from then on as I didn't figure I'd get much sympathy from a judge, who was himself grimy and sweat-stained from fire-fighting for several days on end."

RING MEN SUSPENDED

New York, Aug. 31.—Suspension of a number of well-known pugilists and managers for various offences was announced yesterday by the state athletic commission.

Jabez Whit, of Albany, banam-weight, was suspended indefinitely and ordered before the commission for investigation. Midget Smith, New York banamweight, was set down for six months for "violation of contract."

Jack Sharkey, New York feather-weight, and his manager, Joe Wagner, were suspended for one year for violation of contract and failure to appear before the commission.

Sammy Golden, manager of New Orleans, was suspended indefinitely and ordered before the commission.

Said the judge to a blustering prisoner on trial: We want nothing from you, sir, but silence—and very little of that.

Clarke, vice-president of the Vancouver branch, is likewise vice-president of the Dominion executive and in touch with all plans for the convention. It has been found, state officials of the Association, that while many amputation cases are well placed in work suited to the capabilities, others have not been so fortunate, and some cases of actual distress are reported. The convention will deal with this phase of their problems with a view to its amelioration, it is said.

REAL GENEROSITY

A very good-natured lady, who frequently assisted a very extravagant relative, having one summer lent her a considerable sum of money, was surprised and annoyed a few months later to be asked to make a further advance in order that some pressing debts might be settled. "I am very sorry," said the kind-hearted lady, "but I can't possibly help you again just now. In order to lend you that money some time ago I was forced to go without a motor car this season."

"Dear me," was the reply, "if I had only known that I should have been delighted to lend you mine."

Ford CAR WINS GOLD MEDAL as Pathfinder of the Canadian Rockies

Victoria

Ford Car Piloted by George Gordon Makes Fast Time to the Coast and Gets Gold Medal.

(From the Edmonton Journal, July 15th)

Made Trip of Seventeen Hundred Miles Over Rocky Mountains in Eight Days Without Repairs or Change of Tires

The recent pathfinding tour from Edmonton to Victoria, B. C. brought further laurels to the Ford car and it demonstrated that this popular car can be operated successfully under the most severe conditions.

When the city of Victoria offered a gold medal to the driver of the first car to blaze a trail from Edmonton to Victoria via Jasper Pass, Yellowhead Pass and Kamloops, it was considered an almost impossible feat, and if accomplished the trip would take from three to five weeks and the car would be almost a wreck.

The city of Victoria offered this medal during the recent convention of the Canadian Good Roads' Association which was held in that city. A motor road between Edmonton and Victoria has been the dream of western Canadians and to that date an automobile had never crossed the Rocky Mountains and to the first pathfinding car this trip presented almost insurmountable difficulties.

Such an adventurous journey appealed to several citizens and on Saturday, June 17, the first car set out from Edmonton and eight days later Mr. Geo. F. Gordon followed with his Ford roadster. Four days after starting Mr. Gordon caught up to the first starter at Alberta. When this news came through to this city it was presumed that the Ford car had taken advantage of the road-making that was done by the drivers of the other car, but this was not the case as Gordon traveled over a different route altogether from Edmonton to Edson and from that point to Alberta no road-making was done as there is a passable trail between these two points. From Alberta the Ford took the lead and was never at any time headed by the other car and arrived in Victoria, July 4, 24 hours ahead of his rival.

Gordon Gives Ford Credit

Mr. Gordon returned to the city on Tuesday morning by train, as he left his car in Vancouver on display at the Ford showrooms in that city and it will be freighted back to this city and placed on show at the Dominion Motors, Limited, the local Ford dealers. Mr. Gordon gives unstinted praise to the Ford car and he says: "When I first took the notion of making this trip I decided to take a Ford, as from past experience I knew that if any car got through in reasonable time it would be the Ford and to back my own faith in this car I purchased a new Ford roadster. I did not ask or take any financial assistance from the Ford dealer or any other person as I knew that the car would not lose any of its value from the trip unless we went over a precipice or some such accident. We took with us approximately $60 worth of spare parts and tires and we accomplished this trip with no further damage than a broken spring leaf, and never used any of the spare parts.

Pleasure to Drive

"It was a pleasure to drive this car as we knew that it was capable of overcoming any difficulties and as long as there was a place for four wheels to go through or over we went. We traveled approximately 1,700 miles and we never had the slightest trouble with the engine, and we found it both economical on tires and gas. The tires are at present on show at the Vancouver office of the Gregory Tire Company and do not show any wear at all; neither did we have a puncture. If I should ever have the occasion to take a similar trip I would take a Ford."

Remarkable, Yes! Unusual, No! Every day on the ragged edge of civilization, hundreds of Fords blaze new trails, do the impossible. Sufficient publicity has not been given to the unbelievable performances of the Ford.

has preserved all its quaintness and charm, and has been especially faithful to the costumes and manners of the period depicted so vividly by the author.

As a vehicle for the lovely Mary, this story is ideal, running as it does the entire gamut of emotional drama, pathos and riotous comedy. It gives her the greatest opportunity she ever has had for the display of that brilliant genius which has so endeared her to the hearts of Mr. World and his wife. In this play she has a chance to let her public see her as a mature woman and also as a boy of seven. In the world of dramatic art what could be more difficult? Not only in the same play but in the same scenes, will this greatest of all screen artists be seen in these two difficult roles.

Through the medium of double exposure, that most baffling of photographic methods, Miss Pickford is able to appear as two different characters in the same scene, thus producing the most perfect illusion possible.

The Victorian dresses with their puffed sleeves, bustles and long trains the thatched houses and the magnificent castle shown in this film tend to make it an achievement in picture-making.

And who can ever forget the rheumatic old apple-woman, the portly grocer, and the lovable black boy who were such great cronies of Cedric Errol? The human interest and heart appeal in this picture is said to top anything ever yet translated into celluloid.

Miss Pickford will be seen in a greater variety and a more novel set of costumes in "Little Lord Fauntleroy" than in any play in which she has ever before appeared. The display of women's fashion typical of the Eighties will undoubtedly prove very interesting to style devotees, especially when contrasted with the scanty attire of to-day.

BRILLIANT SHOW WINS POPULARITY

Capacity House Opens Second Engagement at Playhouse

The capacity house, last night confirmed the fact that the Playhouse has become a well established source of entertainment to the theatre-going public of Victoria, when the musical company again produced a potted opera on that delightful comedy, "The Country Girl" which met with an equal amount of enthusiasm from the audience as it did at its inception.

Ernie Petch was certainly the life of the company, and was given plenty of scope in which to demonstrate his talent. Comedy was his portion of the play, and he carried this out to perfection. Many times during the opera he had occasion to win the approval of the audience with his singing. He received able assistance from the company behind him in the chorus work.

As in the case of the apple which brought all manner of vicissitudes upon the race, so the cocktail which upon the future of the young sailor and let him into adventure that had been heretofore unknown to him.

The comedy end of the programme is well taken care of by Buster Keaton, the well known comedian, who will be seen in his latest comedy, "Paleface." There is no doubt that this comedy will be as favorably commented on as was "The Boat," which was his latest picture to be shown in this city. The whole programme is light and is the right kind of entertainment for Summer weather.

R. R. Webb presented himself in an entirely new role, one which he has never appeared in before and the applause he received from the appreciative audience illustrated his popularity as a comedy singer. The charming and vivacious manner in which Miss Marie McLaughlin appeared in the role of the country maid, Margery Joy, instantly won the admiration of the large house. She possesses a sweet voice and was the recipient of much applause in her introductory song entitled, "Hark to the Sound of Coo."

The usual love romance ran through the theme of the play while the comedy was supplied by the daughter of the Rajah of Bhong. The Princess, which role was filled exceptionally well by Catherine McDonagh, had been chasing Sir Geoffrey Challenger half way round the globe and had placed him in a difficult situation by appearing, on the scene at an inopportune moment. The fact was the Princess had set her mind on having the admiral of the ship as her husband.

A comely creation was the result of the love match between Nan Peggy Lewis, and Barry, a sailor on the admiral's ship, and which part was taken by Ernie Petch. Frank Arundel, as the admiral, completed the company to perfection and the play was certainly a success.

Reginald Hinks and Peggy Lewis were shown at their best in the sparkling comedy skit "Cold Poison." It proved a delightful opening play to the latter one. Bun Hobday gave a vaudeville turn to the entertainment in a humorous musical monologue, while Frank Arundel was heard in two songs which won much applause. The performance will be repeated every night this week, with a Saturday matinee.

ROYAL VICTORIA

In "The Seventh Day," the current First National attraction at the Royal Victoria Theatre in which Richard Barthelmess is being starred, Miss Louise Huff, who plays opposite the young screen artist, takes a leaf out of Mother Eve's book. And it is not a fig leaf either. The first woman carried man to fall for the forbidden fruit, which in that day was the apple. Miss Huff causes Mr. Barthelmess, who portrays the character of a young sailor to succumb to now what is the forbidden juice and known as the cocktail.

The young sailor had never heard of such instruments of Satan but when this dainty and pretty girl of fashion turned on him the batteries of her enchantment he was no more able to stand temptation than was Adam of old.

As in the case of the apple which brought all manner of vicissitudes upon the race, so the cocktail which upon the future of the young sailor and let him into adventure that had been heretofore unknown to him.

The comedy end of the programme is well taken care of by Buster Keaton, the well known comedian, who will be seen in his latest comedy, "Paleface." There is no doubt that this comedy will be as favorably commented on as was "The Boat," which was his latest picture to be shown in this city. DOMINION

Insurance companies who have motion picture stars insured for large amounts, have appointed representatives whose business it is to watch these young men and women at work. If they persist in taking hazardous risks their rate is raised. The man detailed to watch Owen Moore working in "Reported Missing" which is showing at the Dominion Theatre this week was forced to go to sea with the company and was placed in an embarrassing position when he wanted to raise Owen's rate after watching him do a hundred-foot dive from the masthead. There was no wireless equipment and the captain refused to turn back for the insurance shark. Before the two-week trip was at an end the watcher had a nervous breakdown. He is recommending that Owen Moore's rate be the same as a machine gunner's in war time.

COMING TO CAPITOL

A treasure-bearing caravan, as great as any which journeyed to pay homage to King Solomon, forms one of the big features of "The Loves of Pharaoh," a tremendous picture to be seen at the Capitol Theatre next week. This treasure is the wedding dowry of Samlak, King of the Ethiopians, who hopes to marry his daughter, Makeda, to Amenes, Pharaoh of Egypt. But the marriage is frustrated, and Samlak in anger, makes war upon Egypt. The picture is filled with thrills and burning love interest, and is an Ernest Lubitsch production. Emil Jennings plays Amenes, Paul Wegener is Samlak, while others prominent in the cast are Dagny Servaes and Harry Liedtke.

How Fat Actress Was Made Slim

Many stage people now depend entirely upon Marmola Prescription Tablets for reducing and controlling fat. One clever actress tells that she reduced steadily and easily by using this new form of the famous Marmola Prescription, and now, by taking Marmola Prescription Tablets several times a year, keeps her weight just right. All good druggists sell Marmola Prescription Tablets at one dollar a case, or if you prefer you can secure them direct from the Marmola Co., 442 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich. If you have not tried them do so. They are harmless and effective.

CAPITOL

"Ever since I visited Spain, I have been dreaming of doing a Spanish picture, and now my chance has come!"

The new picture, now being shown at the Capitol Theatre, is "Fascination." In it Mae Murray appears as the child of a Spanish father and American mother. Most of the scenes are laid in Spain.

"Spain, of all countries, remains the land of romance," said Miss Murray. "Miss Murray visited Spain a year and a half ago when making a vacation tour with her husband, Robert Z. Leonard, who presents her in the new picture."

It is a country of such unforgettable beauty that I have been haunted by memories of it," she said, "and I think, in the picture, we have captured that beauty and will make it live on the silver sheet. Moreover, it is the land of real, elemental drama. Although the Spaniard is ordinarily the gentlest and most charming of individuals, he is so overwhelmingly sincere that he does not cover up his emotions. He does not know very well how to dissimulate. The consequence is that he loves and hates with a singleness of purpose that leads to terrific dramatic situations. It is through the inspiration of this background—a background of passionate love and murderous hate and simple beauty—that the story of 'Fascination' came into being."
